

Project InVision Software selected to support Office of the Premier in South Africa

Project InVision International and PricewaterhouseCoopers South Africa to jointly implement Project Management Office for the Premier of South Africa

NOVATO, California and JOHANNESBERG, South Africa – October 3, 2007

San Francisco Bay Area-based Project InVision International (PII), a leading provider of on-demand software solutions, today announced that their award-winning software product, Project InVision, will be implemented to support the project management office for the Office of the Premier of South Africa. The solution will be implemented jointly by PII and PricewaterhouseCoopers South Africa (PwC SA) who have forged an alliance to accelerate the availability of the Project InVision software solution to the South African market place.

The deployment for the Office of the Premier will be located in the South African province of Mpumalanga. The project office will be initiated to support the delivery of six high profile initiatives enacted by the Premier in preparation for the upcoming World Cup Soccer event to be held in South Africa in 2010.

The Project InVision on-demand solution enables firms to automate a consistent and repeatable project delivery process to increase efficiency, improve management visibility, and better utilize resources.

For PII, this alliance and deployment represent a continued commitment to provide worldwide support and channel opportunities for its on-demand software platform. PII partners with world-class solution providers, like PwC SA, to implement its software and provide support and training to its global clientele.
